3 Committee's Message

Dear Bridge friends and members of SCBA,

As we bid farewell to August and welcome September, we reflect on the culmination of the World Bridge Championships in Marrakech, Morocco. This event marked a significant milestone for Singapore as we proudly qualified in two categories: Open and Mixed.

In the Mixed category, our team finished 17th out of 24, showcasing the talents of Kho Jie Min, Toh Zhen Huai, Lam Zeying, Steve Robinson, Selene Tan, and Paul Tan. In the Open category, we secured the 20th spot out of 24 teams, led by Teo Xue Heng, Timothy Wu, Lam Cheng Yen, Fong Kien Hoong, Ong Jin Xiang, and Xu Jiening.

We'd like to extend a warm welcome to our new additions, Steve, Selene, Paul, Jin Xiang, and Jiening, who joined the respective teams, contributing their skills and dedication. We appreciate their efforts, as well as the contributions of those who made way for them.

Overall, it was a commendable performance by Team Singapore, serving as valuable preparation for the upcoming Asian Games. Additionally, our thoughts and prayers go out to Marrakech, which experienced an earthquake on September 8th. Fortunately, none of our players were affected, and we hope for the successful execution of rescue missions to save lives.

4 Committee's Message

Looking ahead, the Asian Games are just around the corner, with the entire contingent set to depart on September 25th via Scoot. We aim to build upon our performance from the 2018 Asian Games and make Singapore proud once again.

Furthermore, the SCBA will host its Annual General Meeting (AGM) on October 15th. We apologize for the delay, which was due to audit issues now resolved. Join us to learn more about the division between SCBA the clubhouse and SCBA the National Sports Association (NSA). It's also an election year, so stay tuned for updates on the candidates running for office.

Lastly, mark your calendars for the SEABF Championships, scheduled to take place in Singapore at the York Hotel from December 11th to 15th. Join us as we compete against the best in the region and test your skills on home turf!

Thank you for your continued support and participation in the bridge community.

5 World Youth Championships Reflections

We have two members of the U21 team, Russell (RS) and Yi Zhen (PYZ) to share their experiences at this year's World Youth Team Championships.

Can you briefly introduce yourself and how did you start playing bridge?

PYZ: Hello, I'm Yi Zhen, a Contract Bridge enthusiast and currently an undergraduate at NUS. My journey into the world of Contract Bridge began over a year ago during my time in a residential college (RC). Prior to this, I had previously dabbled in floating bridge, but Contract Bridge was completely different, in fact more fun! Initially, I approached the game casually, lacking fundamental knowledge such as basic responses to a 2NT opening or understanding the intricacies of different bidding auctions with and without interference.

I am extremely grateful to my seniors who mentored me, providing valuable insights and playing with me into the wee hours - Akshay, Ling Long, Zachary, Zijun, just to name a few. Additionally, I was fortunate to have a dedicated partner in my RC, Albert, who also taught me various Bridge Conventions like Gambling 3NT. I went on to participate in my first-ever Inter-Faculty Games (IFG) competition, where my team managed to secure a commendable 3rd place. This marked a significant milestone in my Contract Bridge journey.

RS: Hi there! I'm Russell, turning 21 this year, and am currently a Year 1 student studying Mathematical Sciences at NTU. I was first taught floating bridge by my peers during Sec 3, but only picked up actual contract bridge two years later, upon joining the Contract Bridge Section in the Strategic Games Club CCA at VJC.

Yi Zhen, having played for the U26 Mixed Team during the APBF Youth Championships, how was the transition over to the U21 team with a new partner?

PYZ: Transitioning was indeed challenging. In the APBF Youth Championships, my previous partner and I had already formed a solid bond through our participation in IFG. However, as I moved to the U21 category, I found myself partnered with Li Wei and Youyi, both of whom I had only started practicing with few weeks prior to the World Youth Championships.

This change presented several noteworthy challenges. Firstly, I had to quickly adapt to their bidding styles and preferences as we lacked the familiarity my previous partner and I had shared. Secondly, it's worth noting that Li Wei had only been playing Contract Bridge for just three months, which added an extra layer of complexity to our partnership. Despite little prior experience, Li Wei was quick to learn and allowed the transition to be much smoother than expected.

6 World Youth Championships Reflections

The team had only a short period to prepare for the World Youth Championships. What do you think went right for the preparation period and what would you have wanted to do if there was a longer preparation period?

PYZ: In our short preparation period for the World Youth Championships, several factors contributed to our readiness. Our team is extremely grateful to Shen Ting and Kelvin for organising our training sessions and providing us with relevant materials. Their guidance was invaluable in helping us maximise the limited time we had. The training sessions were highly focused and effective - targeting common mistakes, ranging from basic minor and major suit raises to competitive bidding strategies. Not to forget, the SCBA members who supported us at training sessions by providing their valuable insights and practicing boards with us.

With an extended preparation period, I believe our team could have benefited from practicing more boards and covering a broader range of bidding scenarios. Besides bidding, declaring was another area that we could have worked on.

RS: I wouldn't say we did much preparation at all to be honest, aside from mostly homework on bidding exercises, bidding on cuebids, and a friendly team match against the Hong Kong team. Most of my team were still studying, so understandably we couldn't set aside much time to practice together. I really did enjoy the training sessions on Sunday afternoons though. We go through the homework and get to play some hands if time allows. With other more experienced players turning up for these sessions, I enjoyed hearing the different perspectives and learned a lot during these sessions.

If there was a longer preparation period, I would love to have more of these Sunday afternoon sessions and perhaps more frequently. At the bare minimum, at least more BBO sessions if we are too busy for face-to-face sessions. Obviously, our card play is nowhere near advanced, but I think my team would agree that our bidding proved to be a greater problem, and that going through more hands would probably help us a lot 😊

7 World Youth Championships Reflections

Could you describe a particularly memorable moment from the tournament and what made it special?

PYZ: One particularly memorable moment from the tournament was the post-game analysis and discussions that took place among our team. After each round, you could find all of us gathered around a dining table, eagerly checking the results and reviewing the hands we had played.

Despite facing some challenges and not achieving the results we had hoped for, our team remained optimistic. We had a sense of camaraderie and a shared commitment to improving. While you may commonly hear us playfully tease one another for mistakes, it was equally common to hear someone say, "I claim responsibility for these IMPs."

These moments of reflection and accountability not only strengthened our bond as a team but also showed our dedication to continuous learning and improvement. It was a reminder that even in the face of setbacks, the spirit of bridge and the pursuit of excellence prevailed among us.

RS: Obviously, our results didn't go the way we wanted, and there are probably more boards that were memorable for the wrong reasons that we probably want to forget and move on from.

I also tend to forget the boards after playing them, unlike some teammates. Hence, my most memorable moment from the tournament was actually when I met up with my online Discord friends. I have been quite active in the online bridge Discord community ever since my JC years and am friends with some of the players who played in the tournament. To be able to meet everyone face-to-face at once, considering the diversity of nations we represent (e.g. Croatia, USA, NZ, Netherlands, etc.) was something I was very grateful for and felt was particularly memorable. My JC life would have been harder if not for the community, so it was more so special to meet them IRL.

8 World Youth Championships Reflections

What were some of the challenges you felt the team faced during the tournament, and how did you try to deal with them?

PYZ: Approximately one week prior to the tournament, our team faced significant challenges due to changes in partnerships. (Note: The 6th member of the team pulled out due to personal reasons.) Until then, I had only partnered with Li Wei during our training sessions. Fortunately, Youyi's profound understanding of various bridge conventions enabled him to adapt to different partnerships, partnering all four of us and code switching across different convention cards. This flexibility and adaptability proved to be invaluable, especially given the limited time we had to prepare for the tournament.

RS: The obvious challenge was combatting the streaks of losses that we had to endure and trying to focus on our own play. Safe to say, our partnerships in the team faced multiple miscommunication issues at the table throughout the tournament, with the context being that all of us were rather new partnerships and coupled with our busy schedule outside of bridge, there wasn't much time for us to practice either.

I think I was the more realistic (and arguably pessimistic) person on the team, so the results didn't affect me as greatly as it may have for others, but we sure wanted to win, and of course, being on a long losing streak doesn't bode well for the team. I would give credit to Shen Ting, our NPC, for dealing with the streak of losses. Our team had a post-mortem after the first day of play, and we identified ourselves making the same mistakes as we had been doing back during training at Singapore, and this was the trend throughout the tournament.

From Day 2 onwards, Shen Ting brought us down to the recreational lounge for us to bond as a team and de-stress after a day of bridge. We would throw darts, play pool, as well as table soccer. Shen Ting would also teach us breathing techniques and even take us on a walk around the hotel before breakfast.

It really helped us to just relax and not be caught up over the mistakes we have made at the bridge table (though my teammates still remained as caught up as ever in discussing boards, to the extent even after we were knocked out from the round-robin stage XD).

9 World Youth Championships Reflections

How has your experience in the World Youth Team Championships impacted your growth as a bridge player?

PYZ: Playing Contract Bridge on an international stage has left an indelible mark on me in many ways. From a skills perspective, this experience was humbling and educational as I met exceptionally skilled players from all around the world. I became more disciplined in my bidding and learnt more defence strategies.

On a personal level, this experience pushed me beyond my comfort zone and provided me with a sense of accomplishment and pride in representing my team and country on an international platform. Additionally, the cultural exchange with players from different countries opened my mind to diverse perspectives and fostered global awareness.

U21 Team (L-R): Ang Shen Ting (NPC), Oh Li Wei, Pong Yi Zhen, Tioh Jing Kai, Russell Siew, Goh You Yi, Xu Jie Ning (Coach)

RS: Coming into WYTC, I was doing an internship after completing my NS earlier this year. Truth be told, I have been very inactive in bridge over the last two years of NS. I played on BBO very occasionally and had played in 5 or fewer face-to-face bridge sessions over the two years. Without a stable partnership and NS consuming my time, my growth as a bridge player stunted, until I took the time to focus on prepping more seriously for this WYTC.

Prior to NS, I played next to no face-to-face bridge sessions as well, without a stable partnership and limited contacts. Hence, my foundation was built upon grinding more robot bridge on BBO, and we all know how limited that is; playing against the same GIB 2/1 system all the time, and the GIB 2/1 system is not even that well-thought-out/designed either. Playing in WYTC, and especially preparing for it, definitely helped me a lot (as I share in the next question), but above all, it reignited my passion for bridge; to play it more frequently, putting more time and effort into studying and playing the game. I think this passion impacts the growth of all bridge players, or at least myself, the most. I really enjoyed the thrill and adrenaline I experienced at the WYTC, and the adrenaline is definitely something that I look forward to and motivates me to play bridge more often after the WYTC experience.

10 World Youth Championships Reflections

Are there any lessons or skills you've developed through this competition that you believe will benefit you in the future?

PYZ: Decision-making is a key skill that I have acquired through this competition. Contract Bridge, with its diverse bidding options resembles the choices and decisions we encounter in life. Some decisions are straightforward and clear, mirroring choices that align with our goals and values. However, just as in life, there are numerous instances where we face complex crossroads with no easy answers. These moments require careful consideration, weighing the pros and cons of different pathways, much like evaluating the potential outcomes of different contracts in Contract Bridge.

RS: My bidding knowledge definitely increased from just GIB 2/1 to plenty of different sequences and defenses against conventional bids. Also, it was my first time playing with screens, and coupled with the limited time I had playing face-to-face bridge previously, this WYTC definitely helped me to be more comfortable at the table and to be more familiar with how procedures work in general, such as alerting.

On a similar topic, 3 of my teammates were part of the U26 Mixed Team that played in the Asia Pacific Youth Bridge Championships 2023 at Ningbo earlier this year, whereas it was my first multi-day Bridge tournament. Being as rusty as I was, from bridge in general, I still recall at the start of Day 4 or Day 5, I was dreading playing bridge before the first session of that day even started (I did feel better after finishing the first session).

I ended up playing 17/19 rounds, most amongst our 5-handed team if I recall correctly, and this tournament definitely was a good experience for me to learn how demanding playing bridge non-stop can be, and hence I am more mentally prepared on what to expect for future events.

Aside from these skills, I learned that sometimes I particularly tended to give my opponents too much credit when playing against them, especially against players that I know or have heard of before. While this is reflective of my nature towards being realistic, I am sure it affected my play in some sessions, and therefore I identify it as something for me to work on; to just focus on my game and to do the best I can, regardless how inferior I feel about myself against the opponents.

11 World Youth Championships Reflections

How do you plan to build on the experience at the World Youth Team Championships and what goals do you have as a player?

PYZ: Building on my experience at the World Youth Team Championships, my primary goal as a Contract Bridge player is continuous improvement. I hope to improve on both my declaring and bidding abilities, and also deepen my understanding of various bridge conventions.

Looking ahead, I aspire to continue representing Singapore on the international stage in Contract Bridge competitions, eventually bringing back a medal for Singapore. This would not only be a personal achievement but also a source of pride for my country and the bridge community here.

RS: I'm definitely looking forward to playing more bridge actively and I definitely also hope to have a stable partnership with someone sooner than later. Definitely will be looking more into resources like books to improve myself to aid along the playing, and we'll see how far it goes! Now that I'm gonna jump into the next age category, the skill level is higher, so hopefully I'll continue my growth after the WYTC experience and it will be an honour if I ever get to represent Singapore again in future as well!

What does it mean to you to represent Singapore on the international stage in bridge?

PYZ: Representing Singapore on the international stage in bridge holds deep significance for me on multiple levels. Firstly, it's a matter of immense national pride and honour. It's an opportunity to showcase not only my skills but also the excellence of Singapore's bridge community to the world. Secondly, it means recognition as both an athlete and a dedicated contract bridge player. It's a chance to demonstrate that bridge is not just a game but a highly competitive sport that demands skill, strategy, and mental acumen. Lastly, it is a personal milestone, a reaffirmation of my abilities and dedication to the game I love.

RS: How often does a commoner get to represent their country for anything really?! It is definitely a privilege and opportunity that I'm grateful for, especially since the only reason why I got into the U21 team to represent Singapore was because the team had vacancies, and due to the pandemic, WBF allowed two over-age players per team. I certainly don't think my skills are good enough to represent the country, so to have this opportunity to represent Singapore is something I find honorable and proud to be able to experience.

12 World Youth Championships Reflections

Lastly, what advice would you give to younger players who are starting out in their bridge journey?

PYZ: My advice to younger players starting out on their bridge journey would be to focus on mastering the fundamentals of the game from declaring to bidding. These foundational skills provide a solid base when you play it competitively.

Additionally, I would encourage them to seek opportunities for learning and practice. Bridge is a game of continuous improvement, and the more you play and learn, the better you become. Don't hesitate to ask questions and seek guidance from the bridge community.

Lastly, patience and perseverance are key. Bridge can be a challenging game, and there will be times when you face setbacks and difficult hands. Stay determined, keep practicing, and remember that every hand is a learning experience. Enjoy the journey of becoming a better bridge player, and you'll find it to be a rewarding and intellectually stimulating pursuit.

RS: Surely, I belong under the “younger players” considering I turned 20 last year 😊 But to those who are starting out in their bridge journey, I guess the simple advice is to not feel discouraged easily and just play more.

One will surely see improvements by practicing more hands and going through more scenarios in both bidding and card play. Remember that everyone's still learning regardless of skill level, and who knows one day you might catch up to the very best of players in the world!

Also, never be afraid to ask, and be receptive to feedback. It definitely helps to have more experienced players guiding you in the early stages where everything may look foreign, so don't be shy to look for help, and be open to what people have to say.
